The City of Mebane operates with a City Council and City Manager form of government. The City Council includes the mayor and five council members who are elected by citizens of Mebane. The City employs 136 full time employees, in addition to part time and seasonal staff, across 11 departments.

A Rich History

Incorporated in 1881, Mebane was a sleepy little town of around 5,000 for many years, but recently has become an economic engine for the region. As one of the top ten fastest growing cities in North Carolina, Mebane has spent the past decade quietly attracting new industry, new jobs, and new residents. When the Dutch makers of Biscoff cookies, (familiar to anyone who's flown on an airline) wanted to locate their first factory in the United States, they chose Mebane. The first US factory for a well-known Japanese candy maker, and new distribution centers for Walmart, Lidl and, currently under construction, a large medical supply company, all have chosen Mebane in recent years as the place to be. Based on its prime location on an interstate right between the Triangle and Triad with access to an able work force, Mebane is uniquely situated to continue its growth. Maintaining the charm of the city while welcoming new residents and businesses is the primary challenge of the City.
